Credentialing statement. BarbWire Media Network issues credentials to identify authorized newsroom representatives. A BMN credential does not independently grant access to restricted areas, private property, courtrooms, secure government facilities, ticketed events or controlled locations. Access remains subject to applicable law and the rules of the responsible authority or venue.

This dossier is designed for press credential applications, assignment verification and media-access requests. It distinguishes original authored work from syndicated placements, profiles, interviews and third-party coverage.

BMN Editorial & Credential Standards

Editorial identity

BarbWire Media Network is an independent digital media network producing original reporting, interviews, public-affairs coverage, multimedia journalism, commentary, cultural programming and community-centered storytelling.

Accuracy and sourcing

BMN seeks primary records and direct sources whenever reasonably available. Material factual allegations are attributed. Reported facts are distinguished from analysis, commentary and opinion.

News and opinion separation

BMN labels reported journalism separately from opinion, commentary, satire, entertainment, sponsored content and promotional material.

Corrections

Material factual errors will be corrected promptly when verified. When appropriate, an update or correction notice will accompany the affected publication.

Conflicts and disclosures

Relevant personal, professional, financial, organizational, advocacy or political relationships that create a material conflict with a story should be disclosed when appropriate. Coverage involving a direct personal dispute of a BMN journalist should receive additional disclosure and, where feasible, independent editorial review.

AI transparency

When artificial intelligence materially assists presentation, animation, transcription, summarization or production, BMN should disclose that use when omission could mislead the audience about what is authentic reporting, documentary evidence or human-created material.

Credential policy

BMN credentials identify authorized representatives of the outlet. They are not government credentials, law-enforcement credentials or universal access passes. Credential holders must comply with venue rules, court orders, safety requirements and applicable law.

Federal Media Access & Credentialing

APPENDIX S | BMN PRESS CREDENTIAL & MEDIA DOSSIER V1.1

Purpose. This appendix establishes how BarbWire Media Network uses organization-issued credentials and assignment letters when seeking access to federal press events. It does not claim that BMN credentials create a legal right of entry or substitute for agency-specific accreditation.

1. Federal Credentialing Framework

- There is no single U.S. government office that issues a universal press credential. An archived U.S. Department of State guidance page explains that credentialing is generally handled by the press or media-relations office of the host agency or organization.
- Access is event-specific. Courts, legislatures, federal agencies, local governments, campaigns, conventions, venues, and private organizers may each impose their own requirements.
- A newsroom-issued credential identifies affiliation. It does not itself authorize entry to restricted locations, override security screening, or confer law-enforcement privileges.

IMPORTANT SOURCE STATUS

The State Department pages titled “Media Credentials and Visa Information” and “Information for Journalists” are archived 2021-2025 content. BMN may cite them only as documented federal examples of credentialing practice, not as a guarantee of current access. Current event instructions must always be confirmed with the responsible press office.

2. Why BMN-001 Is Structured This Way

The archived State Department journalist-access guidance stated that, together with government-issued photo identification, journalists attending open press events could present one of several forms of media identification, including an official photo identification card issued by their news organization or a letter from their employer on official letterhead verifying current journalistic employment. BMN uses that historical federal example to inform its credential design, while recognizing that present-day requirements may differ.

3. BMN Credential Stack

Component	BMN Standard	Function
Assignment letter	Event-specific letter on BMN letterhead	Confirms the journalist is assigned to cover a named event, agency, issue, or proceeding.
Public verification page	Credential status, role, outlet identity, contact channel and disclaimer	Allows a press office or security desk to independently confirm BMN affiliation.
Government photo ID	Driver license, passport, or other accepted identification	Establishes personal identity when required by the host agency.
Third-party credential, when available	For example, an eligible press-association credential or an agency-specific pass	Provides additional validation but does not replace event-specific rules.

4. Current Foreign Press Center Rules

The current Foreign Affairs Manual, updated September 2, 2026, states that the State Department Foreign Press Centers support foreign journalists on assignment in the United States and may issue FPC press credentials to eligible media professionals working for foreign media organizations. Because BarbWire Media Network is a U.S.-based North Carolina outlet, BMN should not represent itself as eligible for an FPC credential unless its circumstances later satisfy the applicable foreign-media criteria.

- An FPC credential is an agency credential for eligible foreign media. It is not a national U.S. press license.
- Current 10 FAM 327.1 describes eligible applicants as media professionals working for foreign media organizations and assigned to work in the United States.
- Current 10 FAM 327.1-1 states that approved FPC credentials grant access to events and briefings organized or facilitated by the FPC. Other organizations may recognize them, but that does not create universal access.

5. BMN Event-Access Procedure

- 1. Confirm the host authority. Identify the agency, court, legislature, campaign, venue, or event organizer that controls media access.
- 2. Check current instructions. Review the host press-office page and the specific event notice. Do not rely solely on archived or general credentialing guidance.
- 3. Contact the press office. Request accreditation or confirm whether BMN-001 plus an assignment letter is acceptable. Ask about deadlines, camera rules, pooled coverage, equipment screening, parking, escorts, and arrival times.
- 4. Submit the credential packet. Provide BMN-001, the event-specific assignment letter, a link to the BMN masthead/verification page, and relevant clips or work samples when requested.
- 5. Carry government ID. Bring the form of government-issued identification required by the host.
- 6. Follow on-site rules. Comply with screening, badge display, equipment, placement, escort, recording, courtroom, and pool instructions.
- 7. Preserve the record. Save the credential request, approval or denial, event instructions, assignment letter, and any issued pass in the BMN credential archive.

6. Required BMN Disclaimer

NEWS ORGANIZATION-ISSUED MEDIA CREDENTIAL

This credential verifies that Barbara D. Gaskins is an authorized journalist and representative of BarbWire Media Network for legitimate newsgathering activities. Credential status may be independently verified through the BMN verification page or newsroom contact. This credential is not government-issued and does not supersede security procedures, applicable law, court rules, venue policies, or event-specific accreditation requirements.

7. Records BMN Should Maintain

- Credential issuance log and expiration dates
- Current masthead and editorial policies
- Assignment letters by event or story
- Published reporting clips and publication portfolio
- Press-office correspondence and access determinations
- Correction log and conflict disclosures, when applicable
- Copies of third-party or agency-issued credentials, if any
